

06/19/2019 -ATIN- Adolescent behavioral care specialist Newport Academy has acquired Gray Wolf Ranch, a youth focused facility based in the Pacific Northwest.

Founded about a decade ago by Jamison Monroe, backed by his family who are prominent money managers, Newport Academy has grown into one of the most successful higher end providers of addiction care for teens. Monroe, who serves as executive chairman of Newport, is an alumnus of Gray Wolf Ranch.

Veteran treatment executive Joe Procopio has recently taken over the CEO post at Newport.

Newport, which has plans to expand on Gray Wolf's 20-acre wilderness property, offers residential, outpatient and day therapeutic schools services at campuses in Southern and Northern California, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

ted@treatmentmagazine.com